

Vanderbilt Legends Club

“Add to Your Life’s Drive”

Patrick Jackson, PGA Director of Instruction

Since 1992, Vanderbilt Legends Club is widely recognized as Middle Tennessee’s premier golf facility and has played host to numerous marquee events including LPGA Tour tournaments, the Tennessee State Open and U.S. Girls Junior Championship. Home to the Vanderbilt Legends Club Golf Academy (VLCGA), this prestigious club offers the top practice facility in Middle Tennessee equipped with multiple tees, putting greens and a first-class short game area.

For 2011, the Club is offering an exclusive Academy Membership program that gives you the opportunity to develop your golf skills and experience VLC. This comes complete with unlimited range balls through December 31, 2011, access to our practice facility, the Club’s fitness center, and discounted rates for lessons. Academy Membership also allows participation in member clinics and golf schools. Single Academy Memberships are now $1,000 or $1,200 for Family (plus applicable sales tax). For more information, contact Carroll Clark, Membership Director, at 615-791-8100, extension 222.

Headed by PGA Director of Instruction, Patrick Jackson, the VLCGA offers all levels of instruction, from beginners to those already developing into scratch players. “People are often under the impression that the Academy is only open to Club members,” states Patrick. “It is open to players of all ages and all calibers. We welcome anyone wishing to improve their game. We also offer video swing analysis and custom club fitting for most major manufacturers.”

With eight PGA members as instructors, it’s no wonder that Academy students have successfully competed on professional, collegiate, state and local levels. Patrick, who has been with VLC since 1995 and oversees all programs associated with golf instruction and training, is himself a former collegiate All-American and mini-tour winner, with more than 20 years experience in golf instruction. His proficiency has helped him develop a sound understanding of golf in its entirety, from full swing to putting and the short game, earning him the 2009 Middle Tennessee PGA Teacher of the Year Award. His expertise lies in diagnosing swing faults, teaching the short game and effectively communicating a method of improvement that will drive results. Patrick explains, “Our instruction is done individually, by appointment, ensuring that each student receives high quality, personal attention.”

Consider giving the golfer in your life a Game-Changer Lesson Package with Patrick. This package, consisting of two lessons per month for the entire 2011 year, is regularly $3,000 for a non-member of Vanderbilt Legends Club. However, Patrick is offering ten of these packages for $2,000 each if this article is mentioned, so be sure to call soon.

For Corporate Guests, Vanderbilt Legends Club Golf Academy offers the ability to tailor clinics or golf schools to meet the needs of any client. Whether you have a group of 4 or 40, the VLCGA staff can design a program to make anyone’s event a success.
