Club History

About Vanderbilt Legends Club

In 2017 Vanderbilt Legends Club celebrated its 25th Anniversary. Construction at Vanderbilt Legends Club (then known as Legends Club of Tennessee) began in April of 1991. Both courses were completed by November of 1991 and opened in the summer of 1992. The original owners were from Japan and had planned to build ten of these projects around the country. The Vanderbilt Legends Club was the only one of the projects to be completed.

Originally designed by Bob Cupp and Tom Kite, the courses are distinctly different. The North course has more dramatic bunkers and greens that are shaped to collect a shot. The South course has greens that roll off to the sides and the bunkers are much less dramatic. In early 2001, Vanderbilt bought out the original partners. Over the years several small changes have been made to the courses but never without the consent and/or input from Cupp and Kite.

Today, with access to 45 holes and a dynamic and progressive owner, Vanderbilt Legends Club is known as one of the top private clubs in the Southeast.
